

1995 ODHDC
NEW YEARS DAY HHHHH

Welcome, Oh Ye true faithful ones, the believers, the keepers of tradition, to the 39th annual Happy Heros Holiday Hangover Hassle.

Before we get started, get one thing straight; if, in the next three or so hours, you crash your car, damage private or public property, vandalize phone books, disregard traffic laws, and generally do stuff you shouldn't have and get caught doing so, we don't know you, you don't know us, and for Pete's sake don't lead anyone you've agonized to the end point (except agonized navigators - hey, you know what you were in for when you showed up).

As usual, you've got until 3 p.m. to hand in your completed scoresheets in the back room of Lou Malnati's Pizza joint at 441 N. Wells. Late finishers better have a damn good story, otherwise you are S.O.L. If you still need help finding Malnati's after this rally, God help you, but for the record, its on Wells about two blocks north of the Merchandise Mart.

Also, keep in mind that nominations will be accepted for the Hero of the year award at Malnati's, so watch for spectacular displays of stupidity, absurdity, wishful thinking, ticket avoidance, and lunacy amongst your fellow competitors.

On with today's event.

Chicago, The Hog Butcher to the World

The stock yards, packing houses and the local corner butcher shops were once cornerstones in the economic structure of our fine city. The convenience and public acceptance of frozen and pre-packed meat products, along with the new mega sized chain stores of Jewel, Dominicks, Cub and others, however, has spelled doom for many of Chicago's local, often family run, butcher shops and meat markets. Today you can visit some of the remaining establishments, both wholesale and retail, throughout the many neighborhoods within the city.

Establishments close to the downtown area are worth the least amount of points thus, the further away and more difficult to reach the meat market is the more points it will score. The score sheets indicate the value of each question.

Please write the answers on the score sheets; you can keep the question sheet for reference when we read off the answers at Malnati's.

X Besides the actual rally questions, we've thrown in a few bonus questions which don't necessarily have anything to do with the theme of the event. The bonus questions are scored this way: five points for good guess, no points for bad guess and minus five points for no guess at all.
